

New partner at Dewallens & partners

Mr. Christophe Lemmens

Mr. Christophe Lemmens

Dewallens & partners is very proud and pleased to announce that Christophe Lemmens has become a partner in our law firm.

Christophe has been working at Dewallens & partners since 2013 and has a broad orientation in health law. Due to his PhD background he has a particular academic focus on healthcare rights and obligations and on medical liability. As a lawyer he has built up a profound expertise in hospital law, healthcare networks, corporate healthcare and healthcare governance.

In 2008, during the World Congress on Medical Law held in Beijing, Christophe was pronounced the first laureate of the Young Researchers Forum. In 2011 he obtained, as only laureate in social and human sciences, a grant to stimulate young researchers from the Research Council of the University of Antwerp. In 2014 his doctoral thesis was awarded the biennial Scientific Prize for Health Law Andre Prims and he became a visiting professor at the UAntwerpen. In 2017 Christophe was named member of the Federal Control and Evaluation Commission on Euthanasia.
