

ALTIUS promotes Grégory Ernes to partner

ALTIUS is delighted to announce that sports law specialist Grégory Ernes has been promoted to the position of equity partner, a development that highlights the firm's continuous and organic growth.

Grégory is a skilled and dedicated sports lawyer, with national and international experience. He handles a wide range of legal matters in the field of sports, with a particular focus on EU and international law and fundamental rights. Grégory assists athletes, investors, sponsors, clubs and both national and international sports governing bodies. Watch this video to discover Grégory's story.

Clients praise him for his “level of expertise and thoroughness”.

Year after year, Grégory has proved to be a valuable team member in the ALTIUS sports law department. His determination has played a vital role in our firm's national and international development.

Grégory is one of the founders of Atfield, the largest sports and legal service provider in Belgium, which combines the sports department of ALTIUS and the tax law firm Tiberghien.

Over the years, Grégory has been a valuable addition to the firm, and we are sure ALTIUS will benefit greatly from having him as an equity partner.

Sylvie Dubois, ALTIUS' Managing Partner, would like to add: "We are very glad to have Grégory as a partner in our sports law team and are delighted to see him in his new role".
